Engage

Connect your campus. Inspire involvement. Foster belonging.

Cultivate a dynamic campus community through robust co-curricular experiences in an accessible online environment while collecting the quality data your institution needs to make strategic improvements and tell your story. By using Anthology® Engage as a centralized hub, your institution can come together around the common goal of creating meaningful experiences for learners.

Connect learners to meaningful experiences

Learners face rapid changes during the transition to college, and it can be challenging to find a place to belong. With Anthology Engage's centralized system, learners have a one-stop shop to explore opportunities for involvement. By providing a space to discover clubs and organizations, host and attend events, vote in elections, and more, your learners can realize their passions and find their home at your institution.

Spend time where it matters most

Accurate record-keeping and smooth, organized processes are keys to any successful student affairs program. With tools designed to make administrators' lives easier, Anthology Engage allows you to create standardized registration and event processes, design reviewer workflows, and bring paper submissions online. Streamline your operations to invest more time where it's most impactful—with your learners.
" As an office of one, I rely on Engage like an office mate—collecting information and acting as a constant resource for our campus."

Inspire collaboration

Every campus has its own unique needs, offerings, and structure. With Anthology Engage, use administrative branches to configure your site to match your campus. Branch functionality allows various areas of campus, such as student engagement, fraternity and sorority life, residence life, and more, to have their own processes—allowing you to innovate without breaking existing systems.

Tell your story

As learners use Anthology Engage, they are also generating valuable data, allowing your institution to gain a deep understanding of your learners' engagement journeys. With tools like the Event Check-In App, create a culture of attendance tracking on campus and watch student engagement grow. Use the reliable data collected to inform continuous improvement efforts and track institution progress over time.

> Anthology Engage has changed the narrative that only a fraction of students are engaged to an understanding that the majority of students are engaged—done specifically through the data we were able to gather and leverage. We are now using this data as part of individual outreach to help all students thrive."

Better together

Anthology Engage offers deep integrations within our robust Anthology ecosystem and with our invaluable partnerships, including GivePulse, Navengage, TurboVote, Room & Resource through CollegeNET, EMS, and Ad Astra. With the additional support of the application programming interface (API) and other data services, your institution can gain a more holistic understanding of the learner journey, provide a sleek and centralized experience for users, and inspire a culture of collaboration across campus departments.
